A: I can't be sure but, and I cannot find the article but something like this appears on Google with the "site:" in the Google search result: The linkedin.com page has an interesting statement: Tynteknik is a Swedish IT consulting company, founded in 2010, with a special focus on large enterprise projects and outsourcing. We develop and support the software solutions we use on a daily basis. Our solutions range from small custom projects to complex backend systems for large clients. We've developed for us, by us, using agile and SCRUM. We love open source, and consider our quality tools to be open and free for all to use. The Open Source tools we use include Git, Jenkins, JIRA and Slack. I don't have the means to test it but from the company name I'd say that Tynteknik is the name of the software developer. So, check if this tynteknik.com/ is a good place for you to try. A: Yes, it looks like Tynteknik and Tynteknik-paid-service are one and the same. Both of them are related to LinkedIn, but I can't remember the link right now. The good news is that if you want to contact the author of this site you can do it here: You will have to give your real name but this is probably the easiest way to get in contact with the author. # -- coding: utf-8 -- import unittest from..testutil import TestCase, TestCaseTiming @TestCaseTiming('slowest', 1) class TestChecksum(unittest.TestCase): def setUp(self): self.filename = "file" def tearDown(self): if os.path.exists(self.filename): os.remove(self.filename) def testGetHashFile(self): data = "line 4bc0debe42"
